on the Church & Social Communications

“Church Communications Ecology”

The Impacts of an Ever-Changing Environment

by

BRETT ROBINSON, PH.D.

Director of Communications & Catholic Media Studies

At the University of Notre Dame, Dr. Robinson oversees outreach efforts for the McGrath Institute for Church Life, while conducting research at the intersection of religion, technology, and culture. He is the author of Appletopia: Media Technology and the Religious Imagination of Steve Jobs. His essays on technology and culture have been featured in Wired Magazine, CNN, the LA Times and Catholic News Service.

The institute's latest project, supported by a $1million Lilly Grant, seeks to develop a deeper understanding of the social and psychological effects that digital tools are having on parish communities. In the digital environment, parishes will thrive only to the extent that they cultivate virtues and practices that lead to true communion.
