Today the Church celebrates World Communications Day! With an image from down under (justiceandpeace.org.au), the papal message offers a timely consideration for our day.

“It is not a matter of simply telling stories as such, or of advertising ourselves, but rather of remembering who and what we are in God’s eyes, bearing witness to what the Spirit writes in our hearts.”

For Ray: What would you look for in a good homily? How does storytelling, in your opinion, work into communicating the Catholic faith?
