

(from Wikipedia.org)

Color	Obligatory Usage	Optional Usage (in lieu of prescribed obligatory color)
Green	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Sundays and Ferias in Ordinary Time
Violet	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Sundays and Ferias of Advent• Sundays and Ferias in Lent• Liturgies on Holy Saturday (except for the Easter Vigil)• All Souls' Day• Requiem Masses and offices for the dead• Sacrament of Reconciliation• Sacrament of the Sick
Rose		<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Gaudete Sunday (Third Sunday of Advent)• Laetare Sunday (Fourth Sunday in Lent)
White	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Christmastide (from Christmas to the Baptism of the Lord)• Holy Thursday• Easter season (from the Easter Vigil to the Vigil of Pentecost)• Solemnity of the Most Holy Trinity• Feasts of Our Lord other than those of His Passion• Feasts of Our Lady^[2]• Feasts of the Angels• Feasts of non-martyred saints or confessors• Feast of St. John• Feast of the Chair of Saint Peter• Feast of the Conversion of Paul the Apostle• The Nativity of St. John the Baptist• Feast of All Saints• Sacrament of Baptism• Sacrament of Matrimony• Sacrament of Holy Orders	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Requiem Masses and offices for the dead where the Conference of Bishops has permitted it.• Votive Masses and other Masses where Green is normally used.
Red	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Palm Sunday• Good Friday• Pentecost• Feasts of the Passion of the Lord• Feasts of Martyrs, Apostles, and Evangelists• Sacrament of Confirmation	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Red Masses and other votive Masses of the Holy Spirit.• Papal funeral