If you're in the Philadelphia area, join me at St Charles Borromeo Seminary for my presentation at the Cardinal Foley Lecture on Church and Communications!

I am honored to be this year's lecturer and offer some thoughts on how we can each be communicators of Christ within the media culture by being cultural mystics.

Communicating Christ's Presence in a Digital World

featuring SR. NANCY USSELMANN, F.S.P.

Sister Nancy is the Director of the Pauline Center for Media Studies in Los Angeles. A frequent guest at Hollywood's red-carpet events and film panels, she is a recognized specialist in media literacy education. Her presentations and publications reflect her continuing research into media mis/affairs catholice - where faith formation and popular media consumption intersect. She serves as an executive board member of Catholics in Media Associates and The Christophers, and as a judge of the Gabriel Awards given by the Catholic Media Association.

January 29, 2024 @ 7:00 p.m.

in the Vianney Auditorium

the event is open to the public with free admission

Tonight, I enjoyed an inspiring lecture by Sister Nancy Usselmann, FSP on becoming cultural mystics through our engagement with popular media culture. She gave the Cardinal Foley Lecture hosted by my Oblate confrere Father Thomas Dailey, the John Cardinal Foley Chair of Social Communications, at the seminary. I was happy to meet sister who signed my personal copy of her book (only halfway through reading it!).
